Streamlined application process with a faster response from underwriters

Get cover quicker with bespoke Temple underwriting in collaboration with you. Particularly suitable for cases that have similar characteristics.

How does it work?

Concierge ATE insurance works by limiting the amount of information you need to send us to the minimum necessary to assess the merits of a case. We agree what that information is and design a short on-line proposal form that is quick and easy to complete using our on-line policy system - TOPS. We can also model a Concierge arrangement for your firm that can work for a wider range of cases.

Concierge is particularly good where you want to insure cases that have similar characteristics.

This example should help - you might have a series of professional negligence 'lender claims' against valuers who may have negligently undervalued property on behalf of lenders in the past. In all of these cases there are usually only few features that are key to each one - the original value, the new expert's retrospective valuation, the estimated loss and any limitation issues.

That's all a Temple underwriter usually needs to know to be able to give you a quick decision.

What makes 'Concierge' special?

- 5 working day case turnaround
- Shorter on-line proposal form
- Quicker disbursement funding access

How do I get a policy for my client?

- Once we have set up your unique on-line proposal form on TOPS, each time you want to insure a case, just complete the form, upload any key documents and submit it to us. We aim to give you a response within five working days.

What are the premiums?

- We can discuss bespoke premiums with you. These can represent a significant discount on our standard commercial premium rates.

Don't just take our word for it:

‘Temple provided ATE insurance for a client facing a particularly intransigent defendant. They quickly identified the issues at play and arranged the appropriate cover for our client. Throughout the process, Temple were very helpful and provided additional information when the defendant attempted to challenge the cover obtained. In addition, they were supportive throughout the settlement negotiations. The result was a positive outcome for our client - one which may not otherwise have been attainable’
