Clinical Negligence ATE Insurance

temple
legal protection

Flexibility is at the heart of our new clinical negligence ATE insurance. Reducing the financial risks to your firm and providing peace of mind your client come as standard with Temple.

But one size does not fit all, especially if you are looking to stay one step ahead in a rapidly evolving marketplace for claimant clinical negligence law firms.

So, depending on your business needs, with Temple you can have now have an ATE insurance scheme either as a stand-alone insurance cover all with the option of integrated disbursement funding. All three give you the broadest level of authority to run cases up to and including trial. So far, so good...

...but what makes Optimum different is that, for the first time, the product and support from Temple is truly tailored to the needs of your firm. Though there are three core products - 'Lux', 'Vexillum' and 'Actus' to choose from, we know that what works best for one firm, may well be different for another.

What we can say is that what we can now offer your firm will be truly bespoke to your clinical negligence team and the very best in terms of our insurance cover, premium levels, service and admin support.

Don't just take our word for this...

Temple trusts our expertise and judgement and we can insure cases and progress them in the best interests of the client without needing to revert for authority at key stages of the litigation. The online application process is quick and simple. The premiums are competitively-priced ... any claims on the policy are dealt with efficiently and without question. ... Temple's disbursement funding helps meet the significant third-party costs that are incurred whilst running a busy medical negligence practice. Service levels are excellent. It has been a partnership in every sense of the word and long may it continue.
